

SCHOOL BOARDS CLOSE BOOKS AT SPECIAL MEETS

Action of Third District Board in Awarding Rewiring Con- tract Confirmed

Third and Fourth district school boards held special meetings Monday evening, to take the place of the annual meetings, which are usually held the first Monday in July. District school boards will automatically pass out of existence on July 1 and the special meetings were held to balance the books of the boards and to finish up over business.

At the meeting of the Third district board at Washington school, the action of the board in awarding a contract for the rewiring of the Third and fourth ward schools at a meeting on April 15, was confirmed. The board also voted the Third District school board the authority to borrow the money to pay for the work, providing the necessary sum was not available in the treasury.

The contract had been awarded to the Art-Killgren Electric company, and Ralph Raschig, secretary of the Langstadt Electric Co. obtained an injunction to restrain the school board from paying for the work. A demurrer was sustained in municipal court.

The director, clerk and treasurer of the district were directed to transfer to the city all rights, titles and interests, with any property, according to the course prescribed by law.

At the annual meeting of the fourth district school the report of the auditors committee was read and approved. The report showed a deficit of about $200. The balance on and July 6, 1925 was $1,558.42 and during the year various incomes welled this to $21,739.90. Expenses for the year totaled $21,595.24 leaving a balance of $144.68. At the meeting Monday evening bills amounting to $0 were allowed, leaving a balance of $144.68. Another bill amounting to $228 for steel partitions in the girls lavatory was presented to the board but as there was not enough money to meet the bill the clerk and treasurer were instructed to turn both the bills and the treasury balance to the secretary of the board of education.

BADGERS IN VAN IN LEGION MARCH

Plummer Will Head Wisconsin Delegation in Parade at National Convention

Wisconsin will occupy third place among the larger state departments in the parade at the national American Legion convention Oct. 11 to 15 in Philadelphia for having conducted the third most successful membership drive during the last year, according to word received here by H. L. "Pep" Plummer, state commander. Legion departments in such places as the Philippine Islands, Panama, Canal Zone, Porto Rico and in small sparsely populated states have shown a greater percentage of growth during the last year than Wisconsin, but have only a few hundred members in their departments.

The only large departments which exceeded Wisconsin in the rate of growth last year were Illinois and Kansas. The Minnesota state department, which put on an especially aggressive campaign during the year, finished in fourth place.

Commander Plummer will lead the Wisconsin delegation in the parade.

STATE TO PLANT MYRIADS OF FISH

Over 200,000,000 Finger- lings to Be Placed in Bad- ger Lakes and Streams in Year

The state conservation commission estimates that it will place about 200,000,000 small fish in the lakes and streams of the state this year.

Elmer S. Hall, state conservation commissioner, points out that where three years ago the commission had but one fish car that was only partly used for distribution, the state now has three cars that are being kept busy day and night in getting fish from the various hatcheries to their destination.

The young fish are sent on application to various people who take care of the job of putting them in streams and lakes. The commission now has applications from more than 6,000 people who seek the stocking of certain waters.

Besides the increase in the number of fish being distributed, more room is now needed because of the new policy of holding the stock until they have reached fingerling size before putting them into streams and lakes as a means of cutting down the death rate of those

New Instructor at Vocational School Says West More Conservative Than East

"In my work here I find that the west is more conservative than the east," Harold G. Noyes said in a talk on Impressions of Wisconsin, to the Lions club at the weekly meeting Monday noon at Conway hotel. Mr. Noyes has been in the Fox River Valley for about six months preparing to offer a course in papermaking in the vocational schools of the valley.

He explained his statement on the conservatism of the east and west by saying that the east judges her actions by the past while the west judges her future by a big idea of the future. "The west weighs everything carefully to decide whether it will bring the future it is planning," Mr. Noyes said, "and because the future is so much more intangible than the past you are more conservative."

Mr. Noyes also compared the people of the New England states, their community life, education, churches and cities, with Wisconsin.

Attendance At University Farm School Falling Off

Madison—(AP)—The advantages of an education in farming are being placed before prospective students by the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture, whose attendance has been growing less in recent years.

There were only 42 graduates in the four year course in agriculture this year, as compared with 80 last year and 83 in 1924. The attendance in the two year course also has fallen off. In 1923-24 it was 55; in 1924-25, it was 19, and during the past scholastic year it was 12.

Agricultural education is needed to solve the farm problems of today and the future, says Walter H. Ebling, a member of the college staff. Mr. Ebling presents arguments for farm life.

As against the city attractions that draw young men from the country, "Your problems will be as different from those of your father as his were from those of his father," Mr. Ebling tells young men who live on farms. "Your problem will be more complex, but far more profitable, too, if met intelligently."

"Farming is becoming more and more a business. It needs trained business men, farmers who are masters of the industry of agriculture, and who possess creative genius. The future of the farm youth is singularly bright, but if he would be active in the agricultural advance of tomorrow, his responsibility is twofold. He will need all of his father's information of the practical side of farming, as well as a working knowledge of the science and business of farming."

"The best farmer of tomorrow will be a more highly trained and educated man, a man of much business ability and power. He will be especially schooled for his work and he will have to achieve even greater things than

Refrigerators

In the early days there were no refrigerators, there were only ice boxes. The primitive ice box was supposed and intended to keep butter solid and milk in a liquid state. If the butter was strong and the milk became tainted the ice box needed cleaning. Modern domestic economy demands more and in meeting these demands our cleansable refrigerators are a distinct achievement. Food may be kept in them without spoiling and also without taint from other articles; the original flavor is retained insofar as its nature will permit. The food compartments of our refrigerators are kept at an even low temperature, keeping pure food with the greatest economy of ice. With excellent interior arrangement as a basis, the various styles of exterior are built on well proportioned lines, which, in conjunction with the perfection of oak or white enameled finish, results in a piece of furniture you may be proud of. Prices will be found to be extremely reasonable.

his father or grandfathers did before him, to be called successful.

"Why should the country boy want to leave his father's farm and go to the city anyway?" Mr. Ebling asks. "If he only knew it, he already has in his possession many of the things that city folks desire. His is a business that is most fundamental to the life of the nation, and from time immemorial, it has been looked upon as the oldest and noblest of our industries."

"In choosing his life work, it is important that the farm boy chooses carefully. To the old cow, the grass over the fence always looks greener and sweeter than that at her feet, but many times she has found it unwise to go into the neighbor's pasture. So the lure of the city may hold out false hopes to the bright boy from the country. Whatever he does, he should be sure of himself, before he decides upon where he will go to find his place of service."

"By training himself properly, the farm boy may find his greatest prosperity, happiness, and usefulness right out in the country on the home farm. Wisconsin has provided the schools to give the farmer of tomorrow the training he wants, and it will

NO VIOLATION OF PROSPERITY HERE

A deal of newspaper space is being given to the investigation of the activities of the Women's Christian Temperance Union toward the enforcement of Pennsylvania's liquor laws. It appears from the evidence that this organization has raised a large sum of money, part of which was used for the Pinchot senatorial campaign and part for prohibition enforcement. The Women's Christian Temperance Union is described in some of the news dispatches as the super-government of Pennsylvania, and is otherwise criticized and ridiculed.

We think the Women's Christian Temperance Union is entirely within its rights and that it has committed no offense against the proprieties, provided it has committed none against the law. It certainly is its privilege, if it so desires, to raise money to enforce legislation it has sought to obtain throughout its history. It is particularly justified in this course where the established agencies of government fail to do their duty and ignore the law.

It is queer how much fuss will be raised about attempts of interested citizens to enforce law whereas nothing is said about the dereliction of officers and executives who treat law with contempt and are blind to its violation. It is the right of any citizen or group of citizens to gather evidence of law violation and present it to the proper authorities. It takes money and organization to obtain evidence of serious liquor law violations. From all the information at hand it appears that Pennsylvania is sorely in need of the work performed by the Women's Christian Temperance Union. It would be better if we had more of such activities in other states. We could stand some of it in Wisconsin, where there is no pretense by state or local authorities to enforce prohibition.

BEST SELLERS

The "six best sellers" has become an obsolete phrase; today the list contains at least thirty best sellers. Fifteen years ago, the six best sellers were confined to the serious political novel, non-fiction virtually being unrepresented. Now, in a list of thirty best sellers we have about equal numbers of fiction and non-fiction, and the public is willing to pay about as much for one as for the other. We read 500,000 copies of "Main Street," another half million of Wells' "Outline of History," and 300,000 copies of Papini's "Life of Christ." In other words, people read not only fiction, but biography, history, politics, religion and science.

We are becoming cosmopolitan. Our literary tastes are becoming more catholic, our interests are embracing a wider scope and penetrate to greater analytical depths. It is one fine heritage of the war, this new tendency in reading. The great conflict brought us face to face with the other fellow, with his philosophies of life, with his inherited background, with his racial distinctions, with his centuries of custom. It engendered within us a desire to penetrate this other man and find out why he thinks as he thinks, why he does as he does, and what place he has in the scheme of existence.

We are becoming really educated. We are trying to find out. We are balancing our reading, a little fiction, a little biography, a little of this and that and the other—the net result being a contribution to progress. The present generation, the adult generation, is the first in America to grow up with books within easy reach of all, and it is gratifying that the demand is so well balanced, showing that the American, while he reads largely for entertainment, reads also for general culture and a properly cosmopolitan background.

DAWES PLAN WORKS

The true test of any plan is whether or not it works. Thus the true test of the Dawes reparations plan for Europe was conceded to be whether or not it would work. So far it has. There have been times when it seemed as if it would not, like the recent period of trade depression in Germany, yet, in the end, things began to function smoothly again. Thus, by the test of actual trial, the Dawes plan seems to be a proven success. Certainly it was the turning point in the rehabilitation of Europe.

Germany has met her obligations punctually and regularly, even during trying periods of economic depression, and thus has justified the confidence and trust imposed in her as a signatory to the Dawes plan.

As it stands today the plan is a marked tribute to the organization genius of the man who read the "riot act" to the United States senate upon being made vice-president of the United States. If the senate were as wise as Europe was, the senate would heed his words.

MATERIALISM KILLING US?

Bishop James E. Freeman of Washington, D. C., says that materialism is a cancer devouring the vitals of America, destroying the friendship and respect of other nations for this country and threatening to cause the downfall of the United States. He later adds that America must do more than lend money and make others her debtors, to insure the respect of other nations. "The time has come," he says, "when Christians of every denomination must disavow allegiance to this gross materialism which may ultimately prove our ruin."

While we hesitate to disagree with the clergy on a point of morals or ethics, we take issue with Bishop Freeman in regard to our loaning money to other nations and thus losing their respect. It was the salvation of the world that America had been materialistic enough to secure the funds so necessary to the rest of the allied nations. If we had not had this money to lend there would have been a different story to tell. Our money helped win the war for humanity.

We are materialistic, but it is a materialism that is not all greed at that. We are wealthy but we give to the world with lavish hand; when pestilence, catastrophe and need arise, we stand ready all times to extend not only our sympathy but our materialistic purses, to the needy peoples of the world. So, while Bishop Freeman gives us a merited warning, let him temper his criticism of our materialism with a realization of the good it has accomplished.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

Along in the wee hours, when all is at rest,
A shrill little voice breaks the still. You wonder, at times how a child stands the test of crying so hard.
Is it ill?

You hie to the bedroom and find, very soon,
a youngster's just having its fling of howling for some sort of lullaby tune.

The kind that a mother can sing,
When wrapped in a blanket, and taken from bed
the tot doesn't cry any more. The little one knows that it's soon to be fed, ere mother starts walking the floor.

From Bedroom, to kitchen, to front room to hall,
The walking is never in vain. If the tot's sung to sleep—then it's fun, after all, to travel through lullaby lane.

If you kill enough time it will kill you.

Smile and the world smiles with you. Frown and the world laughs at you.

Never throw away a day until you get a new one.

You can't double your face value by being two-faced.

The new spring hat may be straw, but its price is felt.

If you care to choose the lesser of two evils, take up working instead of loafing.

Government expenses may be pruned by pulling off a few plums.

Only six more months in which to pay your Christmas bills.

Taxes have been out almost everywhere now, except at the tax collector's office.

Work hard and become a prominent citizen so everyone will have to laugh at the jokes you tell.

The modern girl is considered a good wife if she can put up with her husband's cooking.

Spring is dangerous. It lets the burglars know you are asleep.

Any car may be handled fairly easily from the steering wheel, but not from the front bumper.

Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. STUDY THE SCIENCE OF MAN

This is a good time to outline the form which a greatly needed educational revision should take. It may not interest the educational authorities at all, but I hope that a few boys and girls in the upper grades of grammar and high school may read this and choose their courses more thoughtfully.

We might well cut out considerable stuff and puff which we now teach in grammar and high school and substitute suitable instruction in biology with proper emphasis on human life. Old Alex Pope uttered something more than a mere resounding banality in the essay when he said "Know then thyself, presume not God to scan; the proper study of mankind is man."

Never yet, so far as I can learn, has physiology been taught in a dignified way in the common schools. Anatomy has scarcely been touched. Hygiene is universally a farce. Seldom if ever is a trained teacher employed to deal with these subjects in our grammar or high schools, although under the whip of the law (in some states) trained teachers are now employed in the physical education department. As a general rule the educational or school authorities, themselves uneducated in man science, deem any old teacher who has a little spare time competent to teach physiology, hygiene and related subjects. That's the farce I speak of.

Neglected Courses

The upper grades of grammar school and the four grades of high school should include suitable courses in biology, physiology, anatomy, hygiene, sanitation, health, first aid, domestic medicine, home nursing, nutrition, prenatal hygiene, infant feeding, child care, and even pathology adapted to lay requirements. It is a disgrace to leave all this to chance, pick me up and tainted sources—the only sources now available to laymen who must sooner or later study these things.

These are substantial subjects, quite as important, every one of them, as mathematics or spelling or geography, and these studies may be linked up with English composition, spelling, writing, Latin, physics, chemistry, mathematics, history and every other proper study of mankind.

In some high schools and colleges there is a slovenly trick of bunching all the natural sciences into one course of a term or two, which I warn the boy or girl who seeks an education and not just "credits," to leave severely alone. This smattering is of no earthly use; it is just an educational gold brick. Study zoology, astronomy, geology, botany, physics, chemistry, by all means, but don't be flummoxed by this cheap imitation educational trickster, which would maim off an arm.

"General science," they call the job. Old Doctor Bunkum gives his neostriums very impressive names, too. The education quacks might just as well mix up a dash of French, Spanish, Italian, German and Chinese and offer it to the boob student as "general language."

So far off in the woods are the educational authorities that when a school or college actually put on a course in infant care a year or two ago the newspapers heralded the incident as an item of general news interest.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Nettie Rash, Hives and Urticaria

This time of year I always suffer intensely with outbreaks of what grandma calls nettie rash but the doctors call urticaria. We poor unenlightened laymen call it hives. Whatever it is . . . (O. S. C.)

Answer—Whatever it is I sympathize with you, for they tell me it itches some, and I have had the ultimate in that line. Best anti-itch lotion I can suggest here is calamin lotion containing 1 or 2 per cent of phenol. If you will mention your affliction and inclose a stamped addressed envelope I will send you general instructions for the relief of your trouble.

A Powder You Will Prize

By Edna Wallace Hopper

We stars of the stage and the movies demand the utmost in a powder. Beauty is our stock in trade, and we always look our best. The greatest powder makers in the world supply their best to Hollywood. And they charge their highest prices. For years I paid $5.00 per box for my powder.

Now I have induced those powder makers to supply their best to you. And at ordinary prices. I do this by promising that I will urge all women to employ it. So toilet counters everywhere today offer Edna Wallace Hopper's Face Powder the very kind I use.

This Powder comes in two types. I use a heavy cold cream powder, because it clings and stays. That type costs $1.00 in square box. But the same powder comes in the light and fluffy type, and sells for 50c in round box. Both come in White, Flesh and Brunette shades.

Get a box at your toilet counter today. Learn what exquisite powder means. See what it adds to your appearance. You have probably never used a powder that compares.

Find a Faithful Ally in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. ADOLPH HANSEN HOLMQUIST, SOUTH DAKOTA

Holmquist, South Dakota.—"I can not begin to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was sick for about four years. I could not sleep, and I was always worrying, so one day we saw your advertisement in a paper, and I made up my mind to try the Vegetable Compound. I bought one bottle and did not see any change, so I got another bottle.

At the second bottle I began to feel better and I have used the Vegetable Compound ever since, whenever I feel badly. I recommend it and I will answer any letters asking about it."—Mrs. ADOLPH HANSEN, Holmquist, South Dakota.

Could Work Only Two Hours
Encanto, Calif.—"I bless the day I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was so weak and tired all the time I could not work more than two hours each day, then had to go to bed for the rest of the day. I read so much about the Vegetable Compound and I was so weak that I decided to try it. I now do my own housework—washing, scrubbing, and ironing—and then help my husband with his garden. I do not have that worn-out feeling now. I advise every woman to give your wonderful medicine a trial, and I will answer any letters I receive from women asking about it."—Mrs. STELLA LAY, 700 Jamaica Road, Encanto, Calif.

NERVES BLAMED FOR ILLS LAID TO RHEUMATISM

Physicians in Research After New Cures

ITHACA, N. Y.—To discover the anatomic basis for what they are confident is a cure for various nervous irritations commonly mistaken for rheumatism, Dr. Henry P. De Forest of New York City and Dr. Horace G. Baldwin of Tannersville, N. Y., have been conducting researches in the medical laboratories at Cornell university. Many ailments thought to be rheumatic, but really the result of mechanical nerve irritation, can be and have been cured by these physicians, they assert, but they have yet to find the anatomic substantiation of their method.

Among the diseases which they feel certain are susceptible to treatment by their method are nervous prostration, neuritis, diabetes, Raynaud's disease, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia, angina pectoris, and various forms of painful affections generally classed as rheumatism.

Thousands Treated
The two doctors, who came into association many years ago, say they have treated thousands of supposed rheumatic cases with great success.

Drs. De Forest and Baldwin are working on the theory that afflictions of the class of those named have their seat in the sacro-iliac joint at the base of the back, where the two pelvic bones are joined by a small ilium. A slight dislocation of this bone, they have proven to their own satisfaction, exerts pressure on nerves passing through the joint and may cause pain in the foot for one man or chronic headache for another. By setting this bone in place they have worked seemingly miraculous cures, they assert.

Reason Now Sought
That is the mechanical end of their knowledge. As for the anatomic substantiation of the method, they are at a loss. They procured the use of the Cornell anatomy laboratory at Stimson hall and joined forces to attempt a solution. They have returned to their homes carrying with them certain enlightenment which they are not yet ready to make public, because it is not final.

They have had the interested co-operation of the staff of the Cornell Medical college in their researches which have included dissection, study of the skeleton, experiment on living patients, and the X-ray.

Dr. De Forest has observed and treated some 1,000 cases in the last year. Dr. Baldwin about 2,000 in the last three years, they say. In one case, it is asserted, a seemingly hopeless cripple was enabled to stand and his pain was eased within eight hours of treatment.

Now that you have read the above article, I, J. A. Panneck, Chiropractor will state facts concerning chiropractic:

In 1895 D. D. Palmer discovered chiropractic. The first adjustment was given to a man of impaired hearing, by the name of Harvey Lillard, with the astonishing results that he could hear.

Now as far as the above doctors discovering that nerve pressure in the seat of the sacro-iliac joint at the base of the back, where the two pelvic bones are joined by a small ilium, will produce disease in different forms, is nothing new to the chiropractic profession.

For the first time in the thirty-one years since the discovery of Chiropractic, a reputable medical educational institution has given endorsement to the principles and practice of Chiropractic.

Individual doctors have upheld our teaching—and have been read out of medicine as a result. The endorsement given by the faculty of Cornell Medical College will prove far more troublesome for the medical trust to discredit and deny the merits of Chiropractic.

This department is edited to spread the better knowledge of Chiropractic as a possible method of correcting the cause of sickness and interests of better community health. Inquiries of practical value will be answered in order received if addressed to J. A. Panneck.

BUSY THIS YEARMore New Construction This

Kaukauna—There is more building in Kaukauna this year than for several years past, building contractors say. Many new residences are being built and they are not limited to any one part of the city. They are located in all sections of Kaukauna. This shows, say the contractors, that one part of the city is just as desirable to live in as another.

Business buildings also are being erected. They include a filling station at the corner of Desmoyes-st. and Wisconsin-ave. and a one story brick grocery building at the corner of Tobacco-st. and Oviatt-st. The former is being built by A. Mayer and the latter by A. H. Frank.

Many other improvements are being made in the city. Wisconsin-ave. Depot-st. and Taylor-st. are being paved and many sidewalks have been built. Several hundred feet of sewers will be installed this year.

Kaukauna—A representative from the Ward and Allen company, builders of the new bridge, were here Tuesday morning and went into conference with Mayor W. C. Sullivan. At the end of the conference the mayor reported that the company would finish its contract to remove the piling from the old bridge as well as the remaining part of the old bridge. The work will be started in a few days. Ward and Allen has engaged the McCarty Construction company of this city to do the work. The concrete work, that is the piling between the bridge and the Union Dag and Paper Corporation, will be left until spring when it is believed that the pile will have settled sufficiently. The mayor signed the order by which the Ward and Allen company received the $10,000 held back on its contract.

CONSPIRATOR IN JAIL DELIVERY
SENT TO PRISONReleased Prisoner Who Helped Four Men Escape Captured in Brillion

Forest Junction—Edwin Franke, arrested last Thursday on a charge of assisting prisoners to escape from the Calumet jail two years ago, was sentenced by Circuit Judge Fred Beglinger at Oshkosh on Monday to a state prison term of from two to three years.

His arrest came as a sequel to the arrest at Kaukauna last Thursday afternoon of Clarence Kern, who was one of the four prisoners who had escaped. Kern disclosed information implicating Franke, who was arrested the same evening in the Globe Hotel at Brillion, where he was employed in the Iron Works.

The case dates back to Sunday night, Aug. 3, 1924, when Franke was one of a group of three men from here who burglarized the Henry Roh place in town Harrison, stealing three slot machines. The men were apprehended and held in the county jail awaiting trial in circuit court. Franke and another of the group were released on bail. Bail for the third party, Daniel Haese, was pending, when on the night of August 20, Franke with three prisoners, Kirscher, Chivington and Kern, from Kaukauna, escaped through a sawed window. Haese returned in time for trial, surrendered and served a sentence on burglary charge. Nothing was heard of any of the other fugitives until the arrest of Kern last week.

Franke pleaded guilty to the charge on which he was arrested. Kern pleaded guilty to breaking jail and was sentenced last Friday by Justice of the Peace John P. Hume at Chilton to serve thirty days in the Calumet county jail. Haese was arrested at Manitowish last Saturday by Sheriff Dieckhoff of Calumet county on a charge of breaking jail, arraigned before Justice Hume, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to three months in the county jail.

The first Stock Purchasing Plan, formulated five years ago, and just completed, resulted in the employees receiving $215.00 for every $100.00 subscribed by them.

A new plan, similar to the first, and running for three years, has been started by the Company, and 70.87% of all eligible employees have subscribed.

Col. Robert W. Stewart, Chairman of the Board of Directors, briefly outlined the purpose of the Stock Purchasing Plans as follows:

"What the Board of Directors wanted was a plan which would give to the employee something of permanent value, a permanent investment, assure an income in later years, an investment in the company which employed them that would make them partners with the managers and other stockholders, welding the organization into one great army of 29,000 people working for a common cause and common good."

The Stock Purchasing Plans, originated for the benefit of the employees, are an incentive to save—a spur to ambition. They give to the employees an opportunity for a sound investment, yielding, by the generous terms of the arrangement, a substantial and enduring profit.

But a larger, more important result of the Stock Purchasing Plans is the strengthening of that spirit of unity which binds the 29,000 men and women of the organization into one great force, working with the single purpose—to serve.

The personnel of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is not a group of 29,000 people working with separate and conflicting ambitions; it is a huge force of 29,000 earnest, ambitious men and women, working together to achieve a common end. And the interests of this working force are the interests of the management and the other stockholders.

This identity of interests results in a service to the consuming public of the highest and broadest type the organization is capable of rendering.

For the theory of service, which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has put into practice, rests upon the conviction that the interests of employees, management, and stockholders are identical—to serve the thirty million people of the Middle West with petroleum products of standard quality at a price which is fair and equitable.

MUST REMOVE SHRILL TRUCK WHISTLES SOON

Chief Prim Says All Horns Similar to Those Used by Fire Department Must Go

Persons in Appleton who own truck equipped with shrill whistles similar in sound to the whistles of trucks of the fire department must change their horns within the next three or four days if they do not wish to become subject to arrest, according to George T. Prim, chief of police.

"We are giving truck-owners whose machines are equipped with these shrill whistles plenty of time to make the change which will comply with the city ordinance passed several weeks ago," Chief Prim declared. Within a few days, however, members of the Appleton police force will be instructed to arrest violators of the new ordinance, he indicated.

Similarity of the sound of the fire sirens and the whistles of ordinary motor trucks often mislead motorists into believing that a fire truck is approaching and causes them to draw up to the curb, when in reality the sound is made by a common truck. If the practice is allowed to continue there is danger of people mistaking the fire department for an ordinary truck, thus obstructing the fire department and increasing the danger of collisions. The ordinance prohibiting the use of shrill whistles on trucks was passed for this reason.

Plenty Of Good Bass Fishing In Waters Around Door-co

BY R. A. CLAFLIN

Just now the bass fishermen are all agog over their favorite sport and where to go to get the best returns for their trouble. There are a multitude of bass waters, and it is not a difficult matter to figure out as to which places will really furnish these fighters in sufficient numbers to satisfy the most exacting.

There is a great deal of agitation just now among the fishermen over the different bass grounds up in Door-co. There is good reason for this too, for there are some excellent places where the red-eyes can be taken in almost unlimited numbers. As a rule, however, so far this season, the bass do not run large up there. For that reason lighter tackle may be used and the fun is increased accordingly.

Good bass fishing can be had at Little Sturgeon Bay, Riley's Bay, Ephraim, Egg Harbor, Hat Island, Mink River and numerous other places. We have begun a series of trips to these waters and, from now on, will be in a position to let the readers have the benefit of our first-hand experiences.

We have just returned from a trip to Little Sturgeon and, while we did not get the limit for each one of our party, we did find the sport very satisfactory. This is not a long trip and one which is easily accessible. That, perhaps, accounts for the fact that not so many bass can be taken here as from some of the waters farther up the peninsula. However it is well worth anyone's time, and both Small-mouth and Rock bass can be taken.

route to Little Sturgeon, will bring you to Smith's place. There boats may be had and you are right on the fishing grounds. A row of not over a mile or two is all that is necessary. Around the point of Wheelock's island, and up along the rocky shore you will get bass. Also, across to the rush lined opposite shore are spawning beds which will produce bass for you.

A nice feature of this place is the rock bass. We took them casting the same lures that appealed to the red-eyes. They are a gamy little fish and unexcelled by any we have for the pen. Their flavor is far better than that of the red-eye. The only thing against them is their small size. They do not run over six to about eight inches in length.

Some of the fishermen use the "Slim Jim" Plug. This is a long green wooden minnow having a spinner at both the head and tail ends. Personally, however, I took both Small-mouths and a number of Rock bass on a small white plug with a red back. This bait is about two inches long and has a spinner on the head end only. To the tail end I attached a long shank hook and to this fastened a bit of red flannel. It proved very effective. A common strip of pork rind shaved down thin, together with a red flannel accessory, will also take them as well as will the most expensive plugs.

ENROLLMENT IN BIBLE SCHOOL NOW REACHES 325

Prof. J. R. Denyes, Director, Reports an Increase of 40 Per Cent Over 1925

An increase of 40 per cent over the enrollment of 1925 classes was reported by Prof. J. R. Denyes, director of the Appleton Week-Day School of Religious Education in his fifth annual report of the school. The report showed that whereas 230 pupils were enrolled in 1925 the enrollment in 1926 was 325. This great increase was made possible through the installation of several weekly classes in the Fourth district school. Before this year the pupils from that part of the city had not been attending the classes because of the great distance to the Y. M. C. A. Owing to this condition children from that part of the city had not been encouraged to attend the school, but during the year the Fourth district board voted to allow the use of one of the rooms in public school building for the purpose of holding classes. More than 80 children were enrolled in the classes.

At various intervals during the year, lantern talks on the people and needs of other parts of the world were given to the children. Teachers were Mrs. J. R. Denyes, who served as assistant director of the school and had general supervision of the classes, Mrs. C. A. Wagner, Mrs. H. K. Pratt, Mrs. Earl Baker and Mrs. P. F. Stallman. Mrs. John Evans was in charge of Fourth district classes.

In spite of the great increase in the enrollment of the school the budget for this year, which was $1,300 was not exceeded. This meant, according to Prof. Denyes' report that the children received religious instruction at a cost of only $4 per capita. This cost is much lower than the cost of similar schools in the state which were not operated on a voluntary or a semi-voluntary basis.

At the opening of the school in September 257 students were enrolled as compared with 230 in 1925. The new classes in the fourth district added 80 more to the enrollment.

The main emphasis of the school was placed on Bible stories. The curriculum for the past year was the same as in 1925. An assembly period of 15 minutes and class periods of 40 minutes were adopted. Standard hymns were learned and portions of the scripture were memorized.

The students were given a systematic historical background of the skeleton upon which was built the moral, ethical and spiritual truths of faith, the report said. It was the aim of the teachers to give the children direction in building Christian lives. Each day's lesson was part of a definite program of instruction as thorough as any other branch of education.

The report of the board of public works on the assessments was open to inspection of property owners until Monday in the office of E. L. Williams, city clerk. The board will hear objections at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the city hall.

Streets assessed were N. Story-st from W. Elsie-st to W. Lorain-st; S. Douglas-st from W. Melvin-st to W. Spencer-st; S. Monroe-st from E. Harrison-st 100 feet north; E. Wisconsin-ave from Wisconsin Traction. Light, Heat and Power company tracks to N. Lemnawah-st.

1926 Brides Will Receive More Expensive Presents

This year's brides will receive more expensive presents and a greater variety than ever before. Spoons and pickle forks are a thing of the past as far as wedding gifts are concerned. The emphasis on personality has been carried to the wedding present and everyone attempts to find a gift which is different and has that indispensable individual touch.

Even the most casual guest spends about $5 on the bride's present. Those who don't spend that much usually scour the town for a gift that at least looks like $5. The gifts of intimate friends and relatives cost from $10 to $50 and the immediate family usually spends a great deal more.

Flat silver, the old stand by for wedding gifts, is more ordinarily furnished by members of the family or the bride herself. Although foreign handwork is extremely popular, linen isn't given as much as formerly. The bride may receive a few luncheon sets and she may get some towels and dollies in showers but she can't rely on wedding presents to fill the linen closet. The modern tendency is toward the novel gift, something decorative for the home.

Colored glass is particularly fashionable at present. Vases, bread trays, console sets, goblets, ice tea sets, and all sorts of plates and bowls are made of it. Cracked glass and optic glass (spiral effect) are sold in quantities

CONCRETE SOON WILL TIE NORTH WITH FLORIDA

Menasha Man, Back from South, Says Florida Realty
Boom Is Broken

Menasha—W. L. Wheeler, president of Wheeler Transfer & Storage company has arrived home from St. Petersburg, Fla., where he spent the last eight months. He made the trip by auto and said before the end of another year there will be either pavement or hard surfaced roads all the way from Menasha to Florida. Florida, Georgia and other states further north are making rapid strides in improving their highway which has been made possible by a 4 cent gasoline tax, he said. Kentucky has a 5 cent tax and the income goes to the improvement of highways. The highway income in some of the southern states from the gasoline tax is more than a million dollars a month, he declared. Mr. Wheeler has made the trip annually for the last eight years and said for the first few years some of the highways were almost impassable. Florida has a cool spring this year as well as a cold winter, according to Mr. Wheeler. Before he left the temperature had risen to 85 and 90 degrees, which caused the remaining winter tourists to return to the northern states. Many southern people left for the north to spend the summer. As to Florida real estate Mr. Wheeler said the inflated prices disappeared during the winter and have been succeeded by normal prices.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

ERNEST LYNN, AUTHOR OF THE YELLOW STUB

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JOHN and FAY MILBURN have a home of their own shortly after their baby girl is born and the advertising agency in which John is partner and copy writer lands a new contract.
John, in love with his wife, but a romantic individual, is fascinated on meeting NELL ORME, of whom PAT FORBES, a friend of John's, hints that she is having trouble with her husband.

NOEL and VERA BOYD, a young married couple, give a party and Vera shows an interest in John that he does not return, but which arouses Fay's jealousy. Noel Boyd later boasts of an arrangement with Vera where each leaves the other to do as he pleases.
Fay takes the baby to Chicago, to visit her parents, and during her absence John runs around a great deal with Pat Forbes, whose wild ten denials have aroused the suspicions of his wife.

Word begins to go around that John is being indiscreet, and NATHANIEL GRAHAM, his business partner, takes him to task. John resents this, and a gradually growing breach between him and Graham is widened.

ELEANOR MASON, who has literary talent and is known to the Milburns' friends, invites John to a party and later starts a violent flirtation with him. He dismisses her and, when he leaves her, decides not to see her again.

PAUL DAVIDSON, a lawyer, who is a bachelor, and amateur actor and something of a rascal, appeals to John to break up an affair between himself and a girl named RITA JOHNS. He tells John that Rita wants to marry him.

WE GO ON WITH THE STORY
The names and situations in this story are fictitious.

CHAPTER XXXI
"I had an idea she had fallen for you," John said, and was silent, musing the thing over in his mind. "Why," he asked, "don't you marry her?"

Paul scowled. "Why don't I jump the lake—or take gas? No, John, I'm not out cut for marriage. I'm this thing a little deeper than you think and I'll have to get out of that."

"Rita," he went on, inhaling a deep quantity of cigarette smoke, "is a bad sort. Clever—good looking—got money, too—at least, her people have it. You see, she's always had her own way—nobody has ever denied her anything. One thing she's set her mind on doing is going on a stage. I've helped her a little here and there, and in the process I've come to have success in interest—her too much for my own good."

"But where do I come in?" John demanded. "As I understand it, you want me to play John Alden with reverse English. Now, just how far has this thing gone? Have you proposed to her?"

"Proposed? By all the gods—no! I made the mistake one night of kissing the young lady, under the influence of gin, an April moon, and a lifelong weakness I have had for black eyes."

"Well," and John grinned, "the young lady didn't think for a minute, did she, that she was the first to receive such favors? I can't see where you've committed yourself."

"Understand me now," said Davidson, smiling a rueful smile, "my technique in such cases requires that I whisper a few sweet nothings while I'm doing my stuff. To put the thing on a spiritual plane, so to speak. Perhaps the young lady drew her own conclusions."

John laughed hilariously. "I don't doubt she had a lot to go on," he said, when he had recovered his composure. "Perhaps the gin influence was a little stronger than you thought. Come now, Paul, what did you tell her—that she was the only girl you had ever kissed? She surely wouldn't fall for that line!"

They had drawn up in front of the Milburns' house. Paul, lighting another cigarette, said, "I won't deny that I probably told her a good many things that I wouldn't have said had I been entirely sober. But as for actually proposing—John, I couldn't get drunk enough for that, and you know it."

John admitted that was probably true. "Nevertheless, Paul, a jury probably would see only the young lady's side of the case—if she cared to sue for breach of promise."

"I hope," retorted Paul, "I'm a good enough lawyer to know that. But," and he made a gesture of impatience, "that's all over the mill dam now. We've got to get me out of this fix."

"All right, Paul, command me. I warn you, however, that I draw the line at murder, abduction and alienation of affections. I don't want the fair Rita to tell me to 'speak for yourself, John!'"

Paul laughed. "It would serve you right if she did. The propositions this: I've been trying to tell Rita that she's making a mistake to think of marrying. If she wants a stage career, she doesn't see how marriage will affect her career one way or the other. When that failed, I tried to tell her that she'd be making an awful mistake to marry me—told her what an awful boomer I was, and all that sort of thing, you know. But no—it wouldn't work; she won't believe me."

"I'm waiting," said John, "to see where I come in."

thing in such a way that she will believe it. As a matter of fact, you know it's true—I am pretty much of a no-good hound. Now let me finish," he interrupted as John began to protest; "let me finish. I don't want to marry Rita, because I'm not the marrying kind, and if I were, I still wouldn't want to marry her because I'm not worth it."

"Be the greatest thing in the world for you if you did marry her," John growled, but again Davidson silenced him.

"You tell her anything in order to break it up. As a last resort, if everything else fails, you might tell her that I'm already engaged."

"What a fine liar you're making out of me!" John began doubtfully to run his fingers through the hair on the back of his head.

"Well," and Paul smiled, that same rueful smile, "if a guy can't tell a lie to help a friend—"

"Oh, I'll do it, Paul," John cut in. "But I don't care for the job."

They sealed the compact with a handshake.

John did it, but before he was through he wished himself heartily out of it; for he was caught in the backwash of a quarrel, he almost lost Paul Davidson's friendship, and his experience with Rita taught him an unpleasant thing or two about women.

The difficulty of getting John and Rita together was surmounted by Paul, who broke a date with Rita to take her to a country club dance, and had John substitute for him.

John brought up the subject while they were sitting out a dance on the club house steps. Overhead a July moon shone in orange splendor, and from the trees near the first tree came the pleasant drone of nocturnal insects. Rita, a shimmering thing in white satin, leaned her head back comfortably against a pillar and lazily watched the drifting smoke from her cigarette.

John studied her curiously. She was, he thought, a beautiful picture. "Why was Paul so stupid?"

Not knowing exactly how to start, he said, rather awkwardly, "I rather pity Paul tonight."

"Because he can't be with me?" she finished for him with a disdainful smile. "Come, now, I expected better things from you."

"The awkwardest things, though, are the sincerest," he said lamely, and then, "Lady," he quoted, "by yonder moon I swear—"

She laughed. "Come, what's on your mind?"

"Well," he hurried out, "this thing between you and Paul. Do you really want him?"

She considered this a while in silence. "Then, with a level look, she answered, "Since you're so frank—yes."

He pulled his arms around his knees, hugging them to his chin, and sat that way a while, silently smoking.

Her next remark was completely disarming. "Are you about to tell me that Paul is a blackguard and I shouldn't marry him? You know, I suspect some sort of conspiracy between you two."

AT THE NEW BIJOU TODAY AND THURSDAY

Instantly the things he had been formulating in his mind to say to her went to smash. There was only one thing left. "I'm about to tell you," he said calmly, "something that Paul couldn't tell you—he doesn't care for you. Of course," he went on hastily, for she had winced as though he had slapped her, "that's rather nastily brutal, and you'll think I shouldn't have said it. But there are two or three things you must consider before you make up your mind one way or the other about Paul."

He flipped his cigarette away and it described a glowing arc in the darkness. "I had to come right out with it—I couldn't lie to you. I had planned, you see, to give you all sorts of reasons why you shouldn't marry Paul, but you'd have seen through them. I might even have told you that he cared for somebody else, but the truth of the matter is, the woman isn't living that Paul cares enough about to marry."

She regarded him in cold silence and he felt that he must say something in his own defense. "I got into this thing," he told her, "thinking I was acting for Paul's own good—but I think, after all, that it is for your own. If you married him there'd only be a divorce. I know Paul, you see—know him as well as if he were my own brother. It's not his fault, but he wouldn't know how to be true to one woman. What little heart he has is on his sleeve."

She was smiling at him—a rather superior sort of smile, he thought. "The matter of divorce," she said, "hadn't bothered me—it would have helped my stage career—notoriety, you know, and it's being done every day."

She regarded her beautifully manicured nails. "No, John—I'm calling you John, you see—if I wanted Paul badly enough I'd take him."

But I don't. What a superb actress she would make, John thought—

"Paul," she went on, "is an incident."

Of course, John told himself, she's hurt and she's covering up. He said, "Of course, I feel like a rotter, sitting here and telling you all this. But anyone who married Paul would find out things about him that she didn't like."

She darted him a quick glance, her black eyes glinting. "I would have married Paul, because he interests me. But," she went on calmly, and her voice was a little hard, "if anyone had come along who interested me more—after we were married you understand—I'd have dropped him like that." She snapped her fingers.

"After all," she said, smiling, "I think I'd be as unlucky a choice in a marriage lottery as Paul."

"I think I understand," said John. "You are curious enough about marriage to experiment with it."

"Exactly—and Paul was the guinea pig."

What vindictiveness! John thought, scrambling to his feet as she rose, and she was smiling over her shoulder at him as she made her way toward the ball room.

"You might tell Paul that," she flung at him.

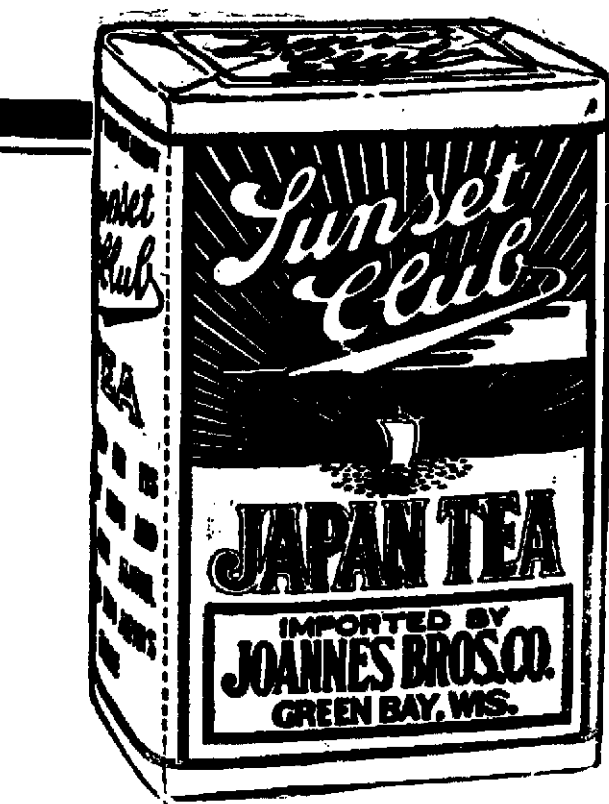

Ten minutes later he was taking her home.

He got hold of Paul the next morning, and explained the whole thing at lunch. "I rather imagine I hurt her pride, Paul, and—looking at Davidson keenly, "I rather imagine she's hurt yours."

But Paul appeared perfectly satisfied. "And if I can ever return the favor, John, call on me."

Later, though, John was to learn to what extent a woman's bitterness can go, for Paul called him up within two days and his first words over the phone were, "I say, John, didn't you rather overdo this thing about running me down? There are some things I can stand for, but the line has to be drawn some place."

Paula Perier and Leslie Prescott

"Is Mrs. Prescott in?"
"Yes, Madame."

"Will you tell her that Miss Perier would like to speak with her?"
"Yes, Madame."

"Good morning, Mrs. Prescott.
This is Paula Perier. I have just arrived and dropped in to see Sally at her office. She is going over to the mill with me in a few moments.
She tells me you are not coming over this morning."

"No. Little Jack is quite ill and I wouldn't feel right if I left him. He had a bad cold on Friday evening.
That was one of the reasons I did not go to the bazaar on Saturday and in spite of all I could do it has grown steadily worse. Last night both the family physician and a specialist were much afraid of pneumonia but this morning he seems much better.
However, I am not disappointed.
I had not intended to go anyway.
Of course I would have liked to see how moving pictures are made but I think I shall have to put that off until I go to California—where—
"Where I shall be only too glad to show you everything."

"You see, Miss Perier, John, Mr.
Prescott, has seemed so nervous over this morning's work that I told him I would not burden him with the added care of a helpless wife."
"I cannot imagine you a helpless wife, Mrs. Prescott. I think you must be the most helpful one in the world, and I know from what Mr.
Prescott has said that he must think so too."

"That's very sweet of you, Miss Perier, but the truth of the matter is that I would be perfectly helpless either in moving picture or a steel mill. I'm sure if I did not continually get between the camera and the actress I would be just about to fall in the open hearth. Although, as you know my father founded the Graves Hamilton Steel Mills, I don't think I have been in them more than three times in my life and I could not possibly go now."

"Well, I'm sure, Mrs. Prescott, I think it just as well you're not coming. We're all at such a high tension of nerves that I'm inclined to think the whole sequence will be a fiasco."

"I called you up, however, to tell you I shall not be able to see you again if you did not come to the mill this morning as I expected."

Adventures
Of The Twins*THE DREAM-MAKER'S
SHOP

"If you will please come into my workshop," said the Dream-Maker Man to the Twins. "I shall finish my dream. I am making. Then I can help you to look for your lost china elephant and toy clown."

So the Twins followed the Dream-Maker Man to his workshop, where Snoodle and Snuggie and Snore, his three sons, went out in their airplanes to do some errands on the moon.

Snoodle was to buy a pound of star
just to make babies' eyes sparkle.
Snuggie was to buy the tails of a dozen comets to make smiles for them.

And Snore was to search all over the moon for a dimple-tree.
All these things the Dream-Maker Man used in his dreams and they were pretty hard to find.

Well, the Twins followed the Dream-Maker Man into his workshop, as I said before, and he set chairs for them while he finished making a dream.

"Who is this dream for?" asked Nick, as the Dream-Maker Man tied on a big apron and rolled up his sleeves.

"It's for a little boy down on the earth called Johnny Conway," said the Dream-Maker Man, as he began to stir up some things in a kettle, with a big spoon.

"What is it to be about?" asked Nancy.

"Oh I forgot," said the Dream-Maker Man. "It's a good thing you asked me that, my dear, because I am not quite sure myself yet. I have to call up his mother on the telephone and ask her what Johnny has had to eat today. It all depends, you see—it all depends. If he has had plenty of milk and fresh vegetables and eaten all his bread and crusts, he is to have a dream about becoming a general and leading an army of a thousand men. I'm sure he would like to dream about being carried around on the shoulders of the people and have everybody shout, 'Hurrah! Long live the king!'—I mean the general."

"But generals ride horses, don't they?" said Nick. "The people don't carry them around on their shoulders.
That's just in football."

"Don't forget," said the Dream-Maker Man, "that in a dream everything goes, and generals may do anything at all. It just happens that Johnny thinks it would be fine to be carried around on people's shoulders and have them shout 'hurrah.' He'd like to dream that."

"What kind of a dream will you give him if he doesn't eat his crusts and everything?" asked Nancy.

"Oh, I'll have to send him a dream that isn't so pleasant, I'm afraid," said the Dream-Maker Man, shaking his head. "Particularly if he has had two sundaes and three bananas and four sour pickles like he had yesterday. I think a dream about being kept in after school for two hours and being made to write five hundred words would be about right. But there! I'll call up his mother right away on the telephone."

So the old man went to the telephone and called up 5505. That was Johnny's house on the earth.

"It's all right," he said when he came back. "He's been a good boy to day. He gets the dream about the general and the army."

The Twins watched him as he went to the big kettle and boiled some brass buttons and a pair of boots and a sword. Then he caught the steam in a bag and tied it up.

"There you are! All ready for tonight," he declared. "And now, my dears, I am ready to help you."

CINCY REDS TROUNCE PIRATES FOR FIFTH IN ROW

Hustling Ohio Crew Takes Four-game Lead Over Cards Who Have Advanced To 2nd

Difference Between 1st and 6th Is Nine Full Games; Ruth Gets Another Homer

Chicago (AP)—Entrants in the National League race have their eyes on a bustling pair of Red Stockings, dimly discernible through the dust, Cincinnati is traveling fast.

Where only a week or so ago the margin between first and sixth place teams in the circuit was only a matter of four full contests, it is now nine and Cincinnati has a four game advantage over the fast climbing St. Louis Cardinals, now in second position.

Tuesday Cincy may veteran submarine server shoved the Pirates overboard, the Reds' fifth straight victory over the champions. May's scintillating around nine hits to win, 6-3. Curtis Walker, made three batters to carry his consecutive game hitting record to 17.

Brooklyn stopped the Philadelphia winning streak at five games by winning in the eleventh, 4 to 3. Bud Marrott, Dodger third baseman, obtained two homers, his second tying the game in the ninth. Charley Hargreaves single with the bases full settled the matter.

The New York Giants playing ragged baseball, went down before the very lively Boston Braves twice, 5-0, and 7-2.

Babe Ruth made another effort to catch up with that famous 1921 record by going a homer at Philadelphia while the Yankees were beating the Athletics 7 to 5. It was Babe's 26th and he now stands two games behind his best years ago. Lou Gehrig also hit for the circuit before he was banished for protesting a decision.

Joe Johnston of Cleveland, hurled a good game and was awarded sufficient hitting to beat Chicago, 4 to 2. Brian Harrison, one of the pitchers traded by Connie Mack to the Red Sox for Howard Ehmke, pitched the best game of the season when he set down Washington with five hits and won 2 to 1.

St. Louis gave a trio of Detroit pitchers a terrific pounding, picking up 14 safe blows in an 11 to 3 victory. Bing Miller's two doubles and a single gave him a perfect day at the bat.

GO-GETTERS WIN 2ND IN KIMBERLY LEAGUE

Kimberly—Ethel Verhagen's Go-getters trounced Virginia Ritten's Invincibles for the second time in the first two games of the Kimberly Girls Twilight softball loop Tuesday evening at the ball park winning by a score of 34-16. The loop started last Thursday when the Invincibles lost the opener to the Go-getters 56-17. Games were played on Tuesday and Thursday at the ball park. The teams are composed of girls from 13-17 years of age.

Heavy-hitting won for the Go-getters. Unrevers were L. Vandervelden and V. Vanderzanden.

BREWERS SPLIT EVEN IN MILLER OPENERS

Minneapolis—The Brewers and Millers pulled and battled through two tough games here Tuesday night, and at the end of the day they had fought to an even break. The score of the first game favored the Red Sox 8 to 3 and the second went to the Home Brews in ten innings 6 to 5.

OLD JOHNNY SCOTT STILL SOME HURLER

Old John Scott is still hurling a pretty fair brand of ball for the Giants. Fact is, he has been one of the team's most consistent winners this season. It was Scott, it will be recalled, who was considered a "has-been" as far back as 1922.

Newark, N. J.—George Court new, Oklahoma, scored a technical knockout over Larry Estridge, New York, (4).

HELPFUL HINTS TO GOLFING STARS

JIM BARNES—PRACTICE FIRST WITH MASHIE
The best results will be obtained by the beginner if he will start with a mashie, playing short chip shots first, and maybe doing a little practice with the putter. Lessons along this line ought to be kept up two or three times a week for at least two months.
My belief is that in this way the player acquires a better sense of distance and hence better control. Also he is more likely to acquire a smooth swing than he would if he starts trying to play full shots from the first. I have noticed that players who begin by trying to play full shots may acquire some skill in hitting the ball with wooden clubs, but they are almost invariably bad when it comes to anything like control and they apply both as to distance and direction. There is another angle. In spite of the important part the short game plays, the average golfer takes a much keener pride in his long game, and if he neglects the shorter shots in starting, he will find it harder and harder to concentrate on the shorter shots. The ball may often run up to the hole very prettily—and stop outside.

DAVE DANFORTH HAD UNUSUAL BALL CAREER

Dave Danforth, one of Milwaukee's star pitchers this season, had quite an unusual career as a big leaguer. Dave made three trips to Baltimore after being turned over to the Athletics back in 1912.

In 1915 he was with the White Sox, putting in several seasons there. He then popped up to Columbus, only to be picked up by the St. Louis Browns in 1922. Later in the same campaign he was shunted to Tulsa in the Western League, returning to the Browns the following spring. He stayed on the Browns' payroll until last winter, when Milwaukee obtained him.

KIWANIS WALLOP Y'S MEN TO TOP LARK BALL LOOP

One Bad Inning in Which Errors Give Winners 6 Runs, Spoils Nice Battle

THURSDAY'S GAME Lions vs Rotary

Taking picks on the talent Y's Men squad, which bothered them considerably in the opening frames, the Kiwanis team advanced to the top notch in the Lark softball loop Tuesday afternoon at Jones park by a 10-6 score. One bad inning in which the losers blew up long enough to allow the Kiwanis six scores decided the play as the Y's men led before that and built a good game the rest of the way. In this frame the third errors behind Colvin who hurled good ball, lost the 1st. Bender relieved Colvin in the final two frames and allowed one run, though walking two men. Since game, Kiwanis hurriedly heaved a nice game, but was hit fairly hard, excellent support saving him from defeat.

McKenzie on first and Bates in the outfield were a chief aid in the Kiwanis' win. Mac played his usual good game while Bates picked off long drives labeled for hits in several instances. Both batted hard and were aided by Eugene Wright, Russell and Schintz. Harry Colvin was the star for the losers with Starnard, R. Colvin and Schintz aiding him. Sager and R. Colvin scored the game and McKenzie got one back. Starnard and Bates kept the pace even in the second, which ended with the Y's Men leading 3-2.

Then came the fatal frame and Schintz, Carlson, Eugene Wright, Russell, Burbanke and Bates scored before the comedy of errors was over, giving the winners an 8-4 lead as R. Colvin scored for the losers. Neither scored in the fourth and in the fifth Russell added a run for the Kiwanis. In the sixth McKenzie added another for a 10-1 lead but Starnard counted and in the final frame after the Kiwanis had gone scoreless, R. Colvin added the final Y's Men tally. Thursday Rotary meets Lions for a chance to tie for the top again. A Lion win puts the Rotary in third.

WIN STREAKS SEEM TO BE PRESENT RAGE

Winning streaks seem to be all the rage these days. The Yankees and Milwaukee Brewers, St. Louis and Chicago, are only a half game ahead of Joe Cusumano's hustling youngsters from Green Bay. Bonds, Kimberly and Appleton are closely hunched.

WEAK CLUBBER CAME THROUGH FOR ONCE

You never can tell when a weak hitter will do. Take the case of Jack Warner, Detroit third sacker, the other day. Warner went to bat three times, made a home run, hit out three hits, one a double and one a triple, and drove in three of the Tigers' five runs, the winning marker included.

SUSIE'S ATTACK BACK; MAY CANCEL TOURNEYS

London (AP)—Suzanne Lenglen's attack of neuritis is so severe, a member of her party said Wednesday that she will not be able to play for months, and has consequently cancelled all her tennis engagements, not only in England and Ireland but on the continent.
She is said to be suffering much pain.

WHY BOYS LEAVE HOME

"Babe", 32-year old boy, living in Springfield, Mo., admired Babe Ruth, but had never seen him. So he ran away from home and walked all the way to St. Louis, where the New York Yankees were playing. The police arrested him as a runaway but took him to the game, where Babe photographed a ball for him and then hit a homer. Rusty was taken back home, satisfied.

Michigan Boasts 4 Titles In Major Sports In Year

BY ART CARLSON

Four Western Conference championships in four major sports—That's the rather proud record of Michigan during the recent October to June campaign.

In football, baseball and track and field the Wolverines romped away with the honors. In basketball they shared them with Iowa, Indiana and Purdue.

Michigan's mark is one of the greatest ever established by a big university in top-notch competition. Starting with football last year the Maize and Blue showed the way in Big Ten athletics through the fall, winter and spring seasons.

The gridgers, under the veteran "Hurricane" Yost, galloped over an eight-game stretch that was the talk of the entire football fraternity. Yost's charges swept aside all opposition except Northwestern, scoring 228 points to three.

Five Western Conference eleven met defeat as well as Michigan State and Navy, the latter being virtually annihilated, 54-0 Indiana westdown, 63-0 one of the worst whippings handed out in a Big Ten battle since the old Michigan point-a-minute days.

Northwestern was the only team to score on the Ann Arbor school, Lewis kicking a field goal.

Dave's Dots And Dashes

With the half way mark in the Valley league reached this week end it is still anybody's race. Oshkosh is still on the top of the heap but Noel & Co. are only a half game ahead of Joe Cusumano's hustling youngsters from Green Bay. Bonds, Kimberly and Appleton are closely hunched.

Every fan around the circuit is pulling for Neenah to shake off its streak of wins. Larsen's crew put up a brilliant exhibition against Kimberly but in inability to connect when the batters were populated, paved the way for the seventh defeat after a closely-contested encounter by a 2 to 1 score.

"Ossie" Cook, the Kimberly manager, is doing a turn every now and then in the outfield for his Paper-makers and getting by in good shape. The Kimberly helmsman swings a wicked club at plate and, despite his giant size, he scampers around the pasture with the speed of a hundred yard dash man.

There will be plenty of action over the week end in the valley league as there is a "double up" schedule on tap. On Sunday, Cusumano & Co. will make their first appearance of the season in Neenah. Kimberly will invade Appleton. This should be a battle royal. Oshkosh is playing in Fond du Lac.

Monday will see Appleton doing its stuff in Fond du Lac. Neenah is scheduled to cross bats in Oshkosh while the Rays will perform in Kimberly. The results of these two sessions are sure to bring about some drastic during the season did the foe get inside Michigan's 20-yard stripe.

The Northwestern reverse was a distinct surprise. It can be taken lightly, however (as it has) for the game was played under a quagmire of conditions, the field being a tangle. Long runs were out of the question ground-gaining was nil.

As I recall it, only one first down was made, Michigan getting that—a "slide" of about a dozen yards by Herrstein. On a dry field I am of the opinion Michigan would have whipped the Purple by three touchdowns.

In basketball Michigan won eight conference games, losing four. Three of the defeats were by three points or less. Minnesota, alone, felled the Michiganers, 28-17, after Michigan had copped the first game, 33-22.

Coached by Edwin Mather, the Wolverines played the best basketball in the organization during the last half of the season. They won five of their first six games. Against Ohio State and Northwestern in the two window tilts, Michigan scored more than 40 points on each.

On the track the Maize and Blue athletes, coached by Steve Farrell, beat Illinois twice in the season in outdoor duals, then went on to bag the Western Conference championship for the second successive time and for the third in four seasons.

The baseball team, piloted by Ray Fisher, former major league pitcher, won 9 of its 11 conference games, breaking even with Ohio State and Wisconsin.

In clashes with schools outside the Big Ten, Michigan, it might well be added, likewise kept close to the winning standard set in its own district. Four Western Conference titles in four major sports! (One, championship for the third in four seasons.)

No wonder followers of the Maize and Blue are proud of the enviable record established by its athletes during the October-June period. It's something to boast about.

changes in the percentage table as the teams are staging a blanket race.

Players of the Appleton ball club are determined to end rival hurlers to strike out records, every time. Though average hitters, they seem to the Batemen face a good moundman enough fan to give the hurler a good knockout mark. Appleton often wins the game at that. This year, Nixon, Neenah submarine artist, tied the record with 13 here though Appleton won last week.

At Oshkosh, Getzler came within an ace of making the record class when he fanned 12. La Crosse fanned ten in the opener. Last year the Batemen made Schramm famous and helped him get a tryout with the Brewers when they fanned 17 times in a ten-inning tilt here, twice fanning three times in a row in one frame.

GOOD START MAY MEAN BAD FINISH IN MOST SPORTS

Golfers Find Poor Start Wins Championships; Hurlers Hate to Fan 1st Man

BY BILLY EVANS

A record breaking start in golf is far from a good omen if you are willing to take the word of some of the game's greatest players.

While the leading professionals and amateurs always relish a low score, many of them are mighty superstitious about being the medalist in the qualifying round of any big tournament.

In like manner, while most pitchers strive to retire the first batter in any ball game, setting him down on strikes is considered bad luck.

In baseball it is regarded as a good bet that the pitcher who starts a game by fanning the first batter will be beaten even if able to finish.

Most golfers are well satisfied if able to qualify without giving any thought to their score.

As a matter of fact any player who qualifies with a round that he knows is far below form feels that his play is certain to improve. He has something to shoot at.

Just as in baseball, when a player leads the league at bat, anything short of repeating is looked at in the light of a batting slump.

When a team wins a pennant, fan-dam expects it to repeat or be regarded in the light of failure. Champions are always expected to deliver.

The case of Jess Sweetser, in the recent British amateur championship is proof that a good start is not necessary for ultimate success.

In their first appearance across the American amateurs made a terrible showing. None played more poorly at Sandwich than Sweetser. In weather conditions decidedly unfavorable for good golf, Sweetser took a 90.

In his debut, Sweetser had performed poorly yet his golfing friends gave no thought to his high score. Knowing his fine competitive spirit they were positive his game would show steady improvement. It did.

How he came to win the British amateur is now a matter of golf history. Later he defeated Hoadness, the British crack, in the Walker cup test.

The star golfer must watch his game, perhaps more closely than any other athlete unless it is the fighter. To reach top form too soon, the faster, is fatal.

Received a query the other day which invariably stirs up plenty of argument in discussing winning streaks. The question was asked as to whether a tie game was considered as having broken the run of victories.

Playing a tie game does not break a winning streak. A run of victories can only be broken by a defeat. A tie game is, after all, nothing, because no decision is reached.

In this connection I might state that the games were played in the two longest winning streaks ever staged in the majors.

When New York set a record in the National League in 1916 by capturing 26 in a row, the Giants were held to a tie after winning 12 straight. The thirteenth contest was stopped in the eighth, with the score standing 1-1.

Likewise, the Chicago White Sox, when they won 19 games in a row in 1906, after capturing 11 straight, New York held the Sox to a scoreless tie in nine innings.

The New York Yankees this year won 16 straight without having a tie figuring in the run. Looking over the scores of the games of the three winning streaks referred to revealed some very interesting facts.

In winning the 19 straight, the New York Giants never once went into the double figures on making runs, proving the club got excellent pitching.

The Giants recorded 10 shutouts, while the White Sox turned in eight. The Yankees, on the other hand, didn't blank a single team while winning 18.

The White Sox in starting their streak shut out the Boston Red Sox in three successive games, while the Giants finished their feat with three straight winnowings of the Boston Braves.

MACKS LOOK STRONGER WITH EHMKE ON TEAM

Mack's Athletics should be tougher than ever to whip now that Howard Ehmke has joined the Quaker Bunch. Ehmke is one of the best hurlers in the league when he feels inclined to give his best. Of course, he could show a great deal with a team like the Red Sox, but with the Mackian forces should win many games.

FOURTH WARD ACES TAKE TITLE, 21-20

A battle to the last notch was the treat given fans who attended the game between the Fourth Ward Aces and the Runkeydinks for the ward title. The Aces winding out by one run, 21-20. George Plummer is captain of the Aces and pitches for his team, with F. Greene as his receiver. The Aces still are looking for games.

Indianapolis—Merle Alte, Indianapolis, defeated Joey Cleon, Milwaukee, (10). Happy Altman, Indianapolis, fought a draw with Mike O. Dowd, Louisville, (10).

Al Simmons Wrecks Theory That Crack Slugger Cannot Pull Away From Horsehide

Athletic Star, Once Known as "Foot-in-the-Bucket", Gets Results With Own Style

BY BILLY EVANS

In all sports, form plays a most important part.

There is a set way to do everything and that method is generally looked upon as the best.

In golf there is the correct stance, the proper grip, the follow through and a number of other mannerisms regarded as necessary to get distance and accuracy to one's shots.

The same holds good for baseball. A majority of players have a decided style as to the way the bat is held and the distance from the plate is invariably the same. The bat is held at about the same spot and is considered most essential to step into every pitch rather than pull away.

It has long been a theory of baseball that no batsman could achieve greatness who failed to step into the ball as he started his swing. To pull away from the plate was a fatal fault.

Then along came Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics. He proved to be one of the few exceptions.

Simmons has a very unorthodox style at the bat. He "pulls" on a great many pitches. This habit ear-

LATZA BEATS HARMON IN 1ST TITLE START

Newark, N. J.—Pete Latza, of Scranton, Pa., has made good in the first round of his recently won welterweight title.

Willie Harmon of New York, a rugged experienced ringman, who for some time has been rated high in the division, stood up against the former mine boy for less than five rounds Tuesday night and then took the count for the first time in his life.

The challenger went down after he had essayed to meet the champion toe to toe.

Yesterday Was Warmest Day Of Coolest Year

"Fair and warmer" says the weatherman at last—and The Old Timer refuses to comment on this the latest report.
A much delayed summer reached Appleton about Sunday and since that time the days have been warm enough to bring out that old promise: "It is hot nuff fer yuh?" The Old Timer hinted that these few warm days have just been a freak of nature, because summer isn't scheduled as a part of this year's seasons.
"We're only going to have two seasons this year," said The Old Timer, "winter and August."
However the weather man promises us that it will be fair and warmer for several days at least. The thermometer registered by the official thermometer at the Schorlmer Hardware Co. store was 56 early Sunday morning and rose to 73 during the day. On Monday the mercury started at 66 and reached 84 for the day's maximum and Tuesday morning it was two degrees warmer than Monday, the quicksilver beginning the day's journey at 68 and breaking this year's record by touching 89 just after noon. A temperature of 88 had been recorded on two other days this year. Cool breezes caused a drop to 54 on Wednesday morning but the thermometer was up to 80 again at noon.
Some profit taking in United States Steel and General Motors, together with professional selling of Hudson Motors, which fell back 2 points, caused a temporary check to the general upward movement. Influential shares relapsed 1 to 2 points from their early highs, buying was later resumed on a vigorous scale. Commercial Solvents "B" A. Room, Dupont and Sloves Sheffield Steel American Smelting and Willys Overland moved up above 20, which one block of 13,000 shares changing hands. Call money renewed at 5 per cent.
The closing was strong. Total sales approximated 1,500,000 shares.

STEEL COMMON STOCK BOOMS

Record High Price Gives Fresh Impetus to Upward Movement
New York (AP)—Establishment of another new record high price by United States Steel common at 14 1/4 at the opening of the stock market Wednesday gave fresh impetus to the upward movement of prices. Buying operations in other representative issues also were resumed with considerable vigor, with General Motors, United States Gas, Iron Works, Allied Chemical, Atchafson and Southern railway scoring substantial initial gains.
Bullish enthusiasm was stirred up afresh by the remarkable showing of steel common, which continued to push forward into new high ground at 142. General Motors again shared the leadership of the advance, setting a 1926 high price of 143 1/2. Wall Street speculated on the possibility of special distribution to the stockholders of the company. Encouraged by the strength of these leading issues, pools renewed their bids for popular support, carrying up prices throughout the list. United Cigar Stores issues reached new highs, the preferred advancing 5 1/2 points while numerous gains of 1 to 2 points indicated general confidence. Signal, General Asphalt, Commercial Solvents issues, South Porto Rico Sugar and Standard Milling, Cherapeake and Ohio, Southern Railway and Southern Pacific led the rally to higher ground. 55 BOYS SIGNED UP FOR ONAWAY ISLAND OUTING

More Than Half of Boys Have Earned Own Money for Y.
M. C. A. Camp

At least 55 Appleton boys will spend one or two weeks at the boys' Y. M. C. A. division camp at Onaway Island, Waupaca, starting Thursday, according to John W. Pugh, camp director. That number was signed up to Tuesday morning and there was a possibility that five more would be added by Wednesday evening. Almost half of the boys have earned their camp money by odd jobs furnished by members of local luncheon clubs. A meeting of campers was held at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. for final instructions.

Monday evening camp leaders met for instructions. The leaders group is composed of John W. Pugh, camp director; Herb P. Helig, director of vocational school, tent leader; W. E. Rogers, professor of botany at Lawrence college, and William Meyer, mature study; Richard Neller, University of Wisconsin, athletics; Daryl Myse, Frank Harriman, Glenn Opperman, Carl Engler, Robert Packard, Arthur Smith, Carleton Roth, and Robert Mitchell.

Mr. Pugh announced the awards which a boy can earn at the camp. The numerals, '26', will be awarded for athletics, to boys who score five points in the camp track or swimming meets. A small "O" will be the honor award, going to boys voted by the leaders as being worthy. A red oak leaf will be awarded to boys completing the camp nature study course satisfactorily.

The boys will meet at 8:30 Thursday morning for a physical examination and efforts will be made to leave for the camp by 10 o'clock. The trip will be made in cars furnished by Appleton Luncheon clubs. Parents and friends will be welcomed as visitors to the camp.

Boys ready to make the trip to the camp are Mark Catlin, Harry Black, William Cahill, Russell Collins, Horace Davis, Chester Davis, Karl Ek, Carl Everson, William Foote, Manfred Helms, Harold Gainer, Earl Gainer, John Goeres, George Goodrich, Edward Goodrich, Benjamin Hensel, John Lonsdorf, Jr., Theodore Moder, Joseph Moosen, Roy Marston, Fred Marshall, Robert Merryfield, James Neller, Robert Neller, Sam Ornstein, Herbert Perrine, Charles Peerenboom, Charles Sanders, Sydney Shannon, Gilbert Schuman, Daryl Schade, Edward Sanders, William Scott, Robert Scherke, Allan Sager, Jack Schroeder, Nathan Spector, Maurice Smith, Chester Thiede, Joseph Verrier, Robert Wichman, John Wolter, Sylvester Welbes, Arthur Zerbel, Marcus McGinty, Robert Meyer, Clifford Rassmussen, John Smith, Chester Penny, Robert Weyenberg, Robert Schroeder, John Frampton, Karl Richmond, Elmer

Doctors Advise Motorists To Carry First Aid Kits

That every automobile driver should carry an expensive first aid kit is a recommendation of the educational committee of the State Medical society of Wisconsin. The aid kit should be extremely simple.

Here are the things which should be carried:

- 1 small jar of sterile gauze.
- 2 2-inch linten bandages.
- 1 small package boric acid crystals.
- 2 4-inch by 5-yard of unbleached muslin bandages.

"Within the package should be instructions regarding the handling of injuries," declares the Medical society statement. "All wounds should be thoroughly covered with the sterile gauze and firmly bandaged for the purpose of controlling hemorrhage."

"Caution should be taken that the bandage is not applied so tightly that the part bandaged away from the wound becomes blue from lack of circulation. A bandage as tight as this is sometimes necessary when one of the large blood vessels has been cut. The bandage should then take the form of a tourniquet. (a piece of gauze twisted tightly above the wound to stop the bleeding.) When a tourniquet has been applied it should be renewed about every 30 minutes in order to allow the extremity to again regain its normal color after which it should be again tightened.

The muslin bandages should be used to hold on an improvised splint for fracture of an extremity. Persons giving first aid to injured extremities should pull on the arm or ankle to restore the natural length and thereby prevent further laceration of soft parts by fragments of bone. A board, cane or even a branch of a tree may be used to hold the limb in its normal position with the above muslin bandages.

"In the treatment of wounds or lacerations following accidents, it is probably wise not to attempt too detailed a cleansing of the affected parts, unless a considerable period will intervene between the time the patient is injured and the doctor arrives. Boric acid crystals, one teaspoonful to a glass of warm water, may be used for local application without in any way endangering the further course of the treatment."

"There are now on the market several new antiseptics which in cases of necessity can be used without danger to the wound. Mercurchrome, in one or two per cent solution, will not blister the skin. Iodine which has been allowed to stand over a period of months very frequently becomes so concentrated that if it is applied as a sponge saturated with the solution very frequently does blister the skin and cause a secondary burn which is very much worse than the ordinary treatment."

"There is no place in Wisconsin where the injured person cannot be gotten to a doctor within a few hours. First aid should be of the most temporary character. It should make transportation easier for the patient and should not in any way endanger the further treatment of the case."

CITY WILL CLOSE OFF 300 FEET ON S. OUTAGAMIE-ST

Request State Highway Commission to Change Drainage Plan for S. Cherry-st

At the request of Fred F. Wettengel the city board of pupils works decided to close off about 300 feet on the extreme south end of S. Outagamie-st at a meeting Monday afternoon when it was shown that the road was of benefit only to Mr. Wettengel and never used as a street. The road to be closed off runs from a side road leading east into Alicia Park straight south to the river bank. Mr. Wettengel, who owns property west of the road proposed to beautify the land now used for the street. In closing the street, however, the city does not vacate the property and reserves the right to open it again if necessary.

The board decided to request the state highway commission to change its plans for drainage S. Cherry-st boulevard now being paved so that the sides of the street may be on a level with the concrete thus allowing water to drain off on the pavement. The highway commission specified in its plans for the street that ditches should be dug on either side of the street for drainage purposes.

It is feared that if the drainage ditch plan is carried out the water will get under the new pavement, freeze in the winter and cause the concrete to crack. The request for the change in plan will be made to O. C. Rollman, Green Bay, division engineer of the Wisconsin Highway commission.

Mrs. H. A. Jones and Mrs. Effie Edwards returned Monday night from four weeks' visit in Milwaukee. Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Drake returned with them.
